- I. The general management to be in a Librarian appointed by the professor, and ten or twelve curators, to be chosen by the students by ballot; four to be chosen in November, four more before the 8th of December, and the remaining two or four before the 15th of January in each session. Two shall attend and assist the Librarian per vices, at the stated times of opening the library.
- II. The said stated times shall be on Wednesdays from half an hour after two till four o'clock afternoon, and on Saturdays from one to three o'clock afternoon.
- III. Every student, at his entry, in each session, shall contribute for the increase and reparation of the library, and incidental cidental expences relating to it, five shillings Sterling. Any gentleman properly recommended may enter a civis on his paying as above.

IV. A student or civis borrowing a folio, may keep the same a month; a quarto a fortnight, an octavo, or smaller volume, a week, and such as exceed those times, shall incur a fine of three-pence Sterling per diem for a folio, two-pence ditto for a quarto, and one penny ditto for a book of smaller size. The said fines to be paid instantly when demanded, under the penalty, in case of refusal, of losing the rights of civis-ship for that session, and the ensuing vacation.

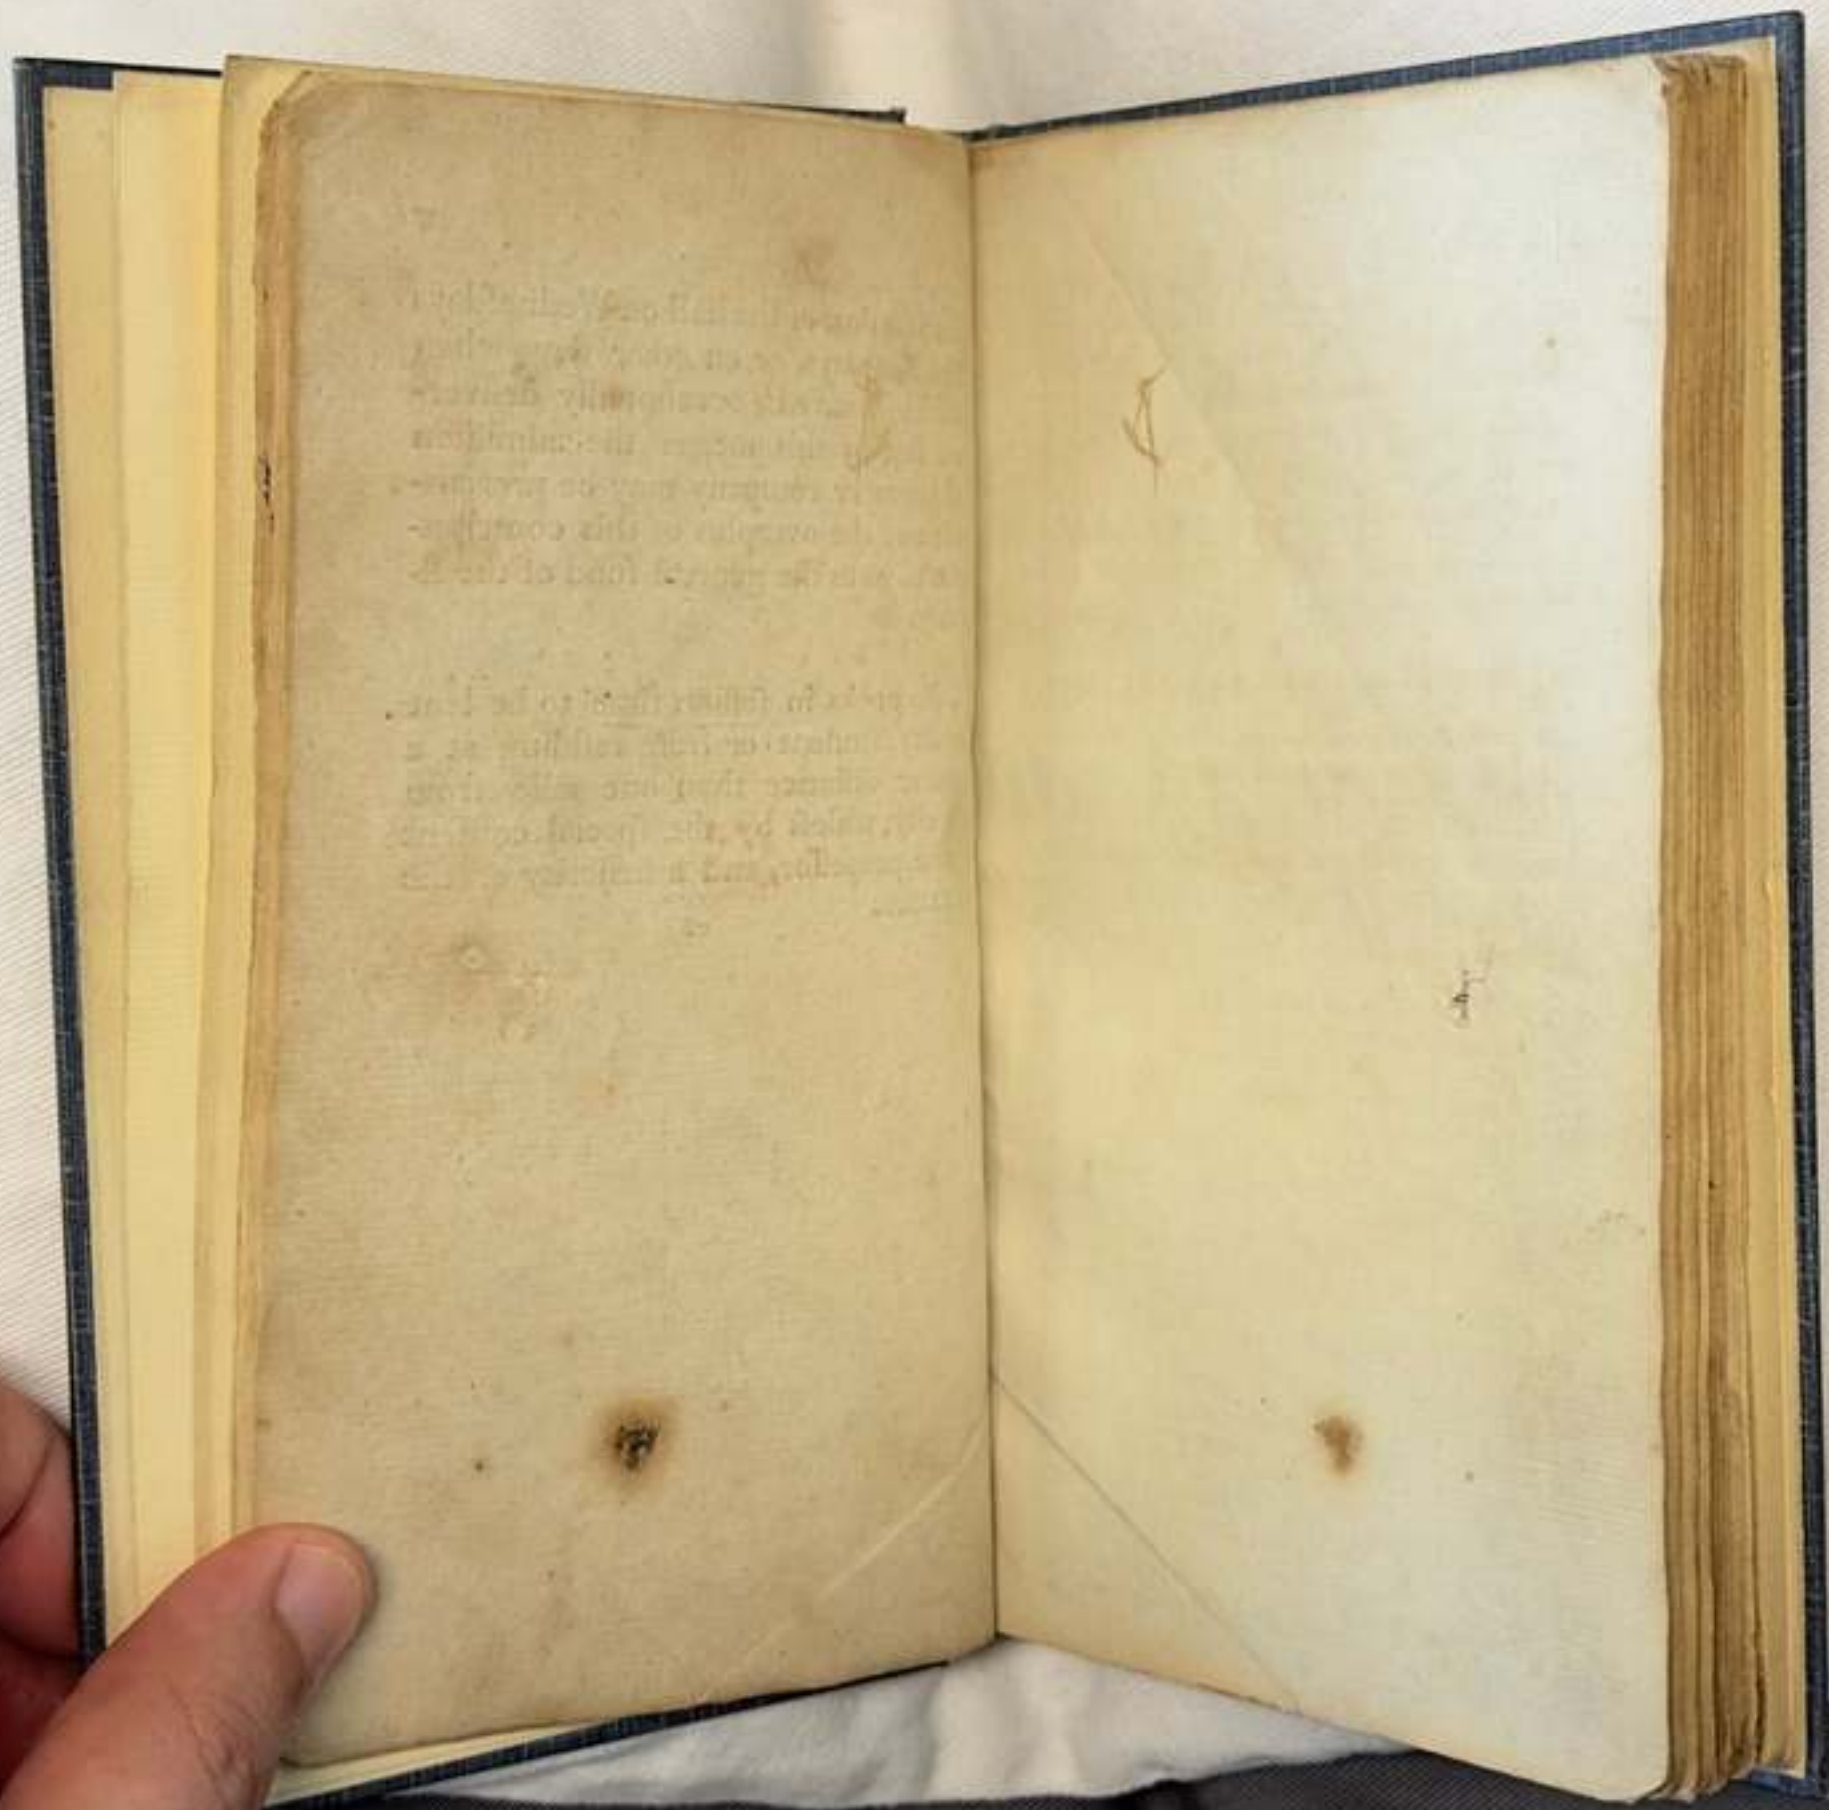

V. None but the Librarian, or curators in waiting, shall touch any book, or take it from the presses, until it is marked for, and delivered by the Librarian to the student, or civis borrowing it. The contravener to lose his civis-ship, and till one shilling Sterling be paid for each transgression.

VI. Each student, before delivering his discourses, shall pay for each discourse to be by him delivered, six-pence Sterling, to be applied for hiring a man to keep keep the door of the hall on Wednesdays and Saturdays, or on other days when discourses may be occasionally delivered, that by this means the admission of improper company may be prevented; and the overplus of this contribution to go to the general fund of the library.

VII. No books in session time to be lent to any student or civis residing at a greater distance than one mile from the city, unless by the special consent of the professor, and a majority of the curators.
